

TARI:

Transnational Asia Research Initiative

2017 - 18

Seminar Series

Copyright © Free Vector Maps.com

October 20, 2017

Crafting a Tibetan Terroir: Wine Production, Identity, and Landscape Change in Shangri-La, China

Brendan A. Galipeau

*Annette and Hugh Gragg Postdoctoral Fellow
in Transnational Asian Studies*

November 3, 2017

Buddhist Transnational/Transregional Networks in Reviving Indian Buddhism

D. Mitra Barua

*Annette and Hugh Gragg Postdoctoral Fellow
in Transnational Asian Studies*

November 17, 2017

Performed Localism, Translated Federalism: South Korea's Cinematization of Koreanness under U.S. Hegemony

Han Sang Kim

*Annette and Hugh Gragg Postdoctoral Fellow
in Transnational Asian Studies*

April 11, 2018

Transmitting Identity Through Pāṭhśālā Temple Education Among U.S. Jains

Brianne Donaldson

*Bhagwaan Mahavir/Chao Family Foundation
Postdoctoral Fellow in Jain Studies*

Grand challenges today in politics, economics, social justice, immigration, armed conflicts, and environment are creating an overlapping effect between the Asian and the global, making it necessary that the existing framework for Asian Studies be re-crafted. Intensifying flows of people, goods, ideas, and cultures within Asia and between Asia and the rest of the world are calling for a new approach to Asia from a transnational and transhistorical perspective. The Chao Center's new research initiative, the Transnational Asia Research Initiative (TARI), brings together scholars from a broad spectrum of disciplines and methodologies to address this complexity.

Mechanical Lab 209

12:00 - 1:00 PM

Lunch Provided

Free and open to the public.
No RSVP necessary.