Exploration of modern Chinese literature through the visual imagery of Chinese films to show how and why different time periods and different media affect the theme of a story. The course will also involve some movie adaptations of classical Chinese literature. Films subtitled in English, shown outside of class. All readings in English translation.